

Incentives for Electronic Health Records

2012 is the last year that you can implement Electronic Health Records and receive up to $44,000 in incentives from Medicare. If your practice is predominately Medicaid, the incentive is $63,750. If you haven't converted to a certified EHR by 2015, Medicare will begin to reduce your payments.

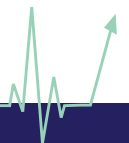

Learning Curve

There is a learning curve to implementing any EHR. And if you purchase the billing component with the EHR, it is monumental. The last thing you need during this transition is to jeopardize your revenue stream with billing problems.

Physician Services Has a Solution

Let your staff learn the EHR, and let our staff do the billing. You save by not having to buy the billing module of your software and you will have a billing partner with over 30 years of experience protecting your revenue stream.

If you're going to move to an EHR, this is the time to do it.
But before you do it, give us a call.
We can provide solutions that will minimize the stress on your staff and maximize your income.
